The Direction of Regulation

Regulatory reform is moving forward unabated with no signs of slowing down. While Asia-Pacific continues to be impacted by cross-border regulation, such as MiFID II and EMIR in Europe or the potential rollback of Dodd-Frank in the U.S., the region's regulators are also paving their own paths and have led the way in a number of areas such as fintech. Our panel of regulatory experts will discuss key trends and share their views on what lies ahead.

Chair:

Jackie Mesa, Senior Vice President, Global Policy, FIA

Speakers:

Ugo Bassi, Director of Financial Markets, DG FISMA, European Commission

The Automated Trading Landscape in Asia

The role automated trading plays in providing liquidity to markets in the Asia-Pacific region is increasing as markets mature. As liquidity providers grow, exchange access eases, new technologies develop and markets move faster, what are the opportunities and challenges? Which claims about automated trading are valid and which are misunderstood? Our panel will sift through the rhetoric and share their insights.

TOCOM Gold and Platinum markets are the most successful futures market for precious metals in Asia and are widely used as a reference price by the industry people. TOCOM Rubber market is well recognized as a world leading benchmark price provider. And TOCOM Middle-East Crude oil market, cash-settled market based on Platts's price, is showing rapid growth in recent years. TOCOM market is utilized as a tool by commercial players to hedge price fluctuation risk in the region and as a unique investment opportunity by the financial institutes.
