PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT: ALLOCATIONS ESSENTIALS PART 1

Session organized by The Institute for Financial Markets

What do COVID, the cyberattack that impacted derivatives trade processing and the recent California banking crisis have in common? During all of these events, allocations of give-up trades were delayed, resulting in increased risk to executing and clearing brokers and position uncertainty among clients. Using a futures trade flow, panelists will demonstrate how give ups add complexity to the executing and clearing process with an emphasis on the risks that result when trades are not allocated and claimed on trade day.

Moderator:

Eric Aldous, Managing Director, Head of Futures, RBC Capital Markets

Speakers:

Mark Davis, Senior Vice President, Head of Strategy, FIA Technology Services

Andrew Dudek, Director, Product Management, BNP Paribas

Dionne Hayes, Director, Futures Clearing Manager, Mizuho

Matthew Rees, Managing Director, R.J. O'Brien
