Introduction

Implementation of the savings and investments union (SIU) strategy, as presented in the Commission Communication of 19 March 2025, is a top priority of the Commission. The SIU will be a key enabler of wider efforts to boost competitiveness in the EU economy by improving the way the EU financial system mobilises savings for productive investment, thereby creating more and better financial opportunities for citizens and businesses.

The development and integration of EU capital markets should be a market-driven process, but various barriers to that market-driven process must first be removed. Despite the harmonisation of regulatory frameworks and the existence of financial services passports, the persistent fragmentation due to these barriers is limiting the potential benefits of the EU's single market. Financial-market participants cannot fully benefit from scale economies and improved operational efficiency, or are not adequately incentivised to facilitate cross-border investments, raising the costs and restricting the choice of financial services available to businesses and citizens. By delivering better and cheaper financial services, the SIU will be a key element in boosting economic competitiveness.

More integrated and modernised EU capital markets should also allow us to explore and benefit from technological developments and innovation. The use of newer generation technologies such as distributed ledger technology, tokenisation of financial instruments, will allow us to empower our capital markets and equip them for the opportunities and challenges ahead.

The Communication on the SIU announced legislative proposals in the fourth quarter of 2025 to remove barriers to cross-border trading and post-trading, cross-border distribution of investment funds and cross-border operations of asset managers. This reflects President von der Leyen's mission letter to Commissioner Albuquerque, which includes the task to "explore further measures to [...] promote scaling up of investment funds, and remove barriers to the consolidation of stock exchanges and post-trading infrastructure". To this end, the Commission has already launched external studies to identify barriers affecting the consolidation of trading and post-trading infrastructures and the scaling up of investment funds in the EU. These barriers include those of an economic, legal (at national and EU level), technological, behavioural and operational nature.

Divergences in supervisory practices can also act as a specific barrier to capital-market integration, as financial-market participants operating across borders must manage different requirements across the single market. Accordingly, any strategy to integrate EU capital markets naturally leads to the need for more efficient and harmonised supervision. The aforementioned studies also seek to identify barriers to integration that are linked to supervision and the Commission will propose legislative measures in the fourth quarter of 2025 to strengthen supervisory convergence and to transfer certain supervisory tasks for capital markets to the EU level.

As part of implementing the SIU strategy, this targeted consultation seeks stakeholders' feedback on several issues and possible measures, legislative or non-legislative on 2 main areas:

- barriers in general to the integration and modernisation of trading and post-trading infrastructures, the distribution of funds across the EU and efficient cross-border operations of asset management
- and barriers specifically linked to supervision

In line with the simplification communication, simplification will underpin all efforts to implement the SIU strategy and respondents are invited to indicate any areas in which regulatory simplification would be appropriate.

As a swift action is required under the savings and investments union strategy to untap EU enormous potential and give it the means to secure its economic future, this consultation must be completed within eight weeks. It is acknowledged that this consultation is extensive and to the extent that not all questions will be relevant to all stakeholders, respondents are invited to reply only to those questions that are most relevant to them.

Responding to this consultation

In this targeted consultation, the Commission is interested in the views of a wide range of stakeholders. Contributions are particularly sought from financial institutions and other markets participants, national supervisors, national ministries, the ESAs, EU institutions, non-governmental organisations, think tanks, consumers, users of financial services and academics. Market participants include operators and users of trading and post-trading infrastructures in the EU, notably trading venues, broker-dealers, issuers, institutional and retail investors, clearing counterparties (CCPs), central securities depositaries, trade repositories, other financial market infrastructure operators, asset managers, investment funds, regardless of where they are domiciled or where they have established their principal place of business.

This consultation should be seen as a distinct exercise from any targeted queries received by relevant stakeholders in relation to the currently ongoing external studies to identify barriers affecting the consolidation of trading and post-trading infrastructures and the scaling up of investment funds in the EU.

Responses to this consultation are expected to be most useful where issues raised in response to the questions are supported with a clear and detailed narrative, evidenced by data (where possible), concrete examples, legal references and qualitative evidence, and accompanied by specific suggestions for solutions to address them in the Regulation.

Urgent action is required to address persistent fragmentation that limits the benefits to be gained from the EU's single market and contribute to secure EU's prosperity and economic strength. All interested stakeholders are invited to reply by 10 June 2025 at the latest to the online questionnaires below.

Please note that to ensure a fair and transparent consultation process only responses received through the online questionnaires will be taken into account and included in the report summarising responses.

Recognising the comprehensive nature of this consultation, it has been decided to divide it into six key topics: simplification, trading, post trading, horizontal barriers to trading and post-trading, asset management and funds and supervision. This approach aims to streamline the response process and ensure each aspect is thoroughly addressed, thereby making it more manageable for respondents to engage with and contribute their insights effectively. By organising the consultation in this manner, the aim is to encourage detailed and focused feedback on each specific area, ultimately leading to a more robust and inclusive dialogue.

Please note: In order to ensure a fair and transparent consultation process only responses received through our online questionnaire will be taken into account and included in the report summarising the responses. Should you have a problem completing this questionnaire or if you require particular assistance, please contact fisma-markets-integration-supervision@ec.europa.eu.

FIA EPTA members believe resolution of the barriers identified by the EPTF report in 2017 is a fundamentally important step in addressing problems with post-trade fragmentation in EU capital markets. Therefore, we recommend these be resolved as soon as possible. The EPTF report is comprehensive and thorough in its analysis and recommendations thus laying substantial foundations on which to base future work. It is not necessary to engage in a wholesale reassessment given this work has already been performed. Thus, in order to move forward with greater EU capital markets integration, we urge the Commission to act upon these as soon as possible.

As a matter of priority, attention should be paid to those barriers concerning a lack of harmonisation of rules concerning registration and shareholder identification processes,) and legal uncertainty as to ownership rights in book entry securities and third-party effects of assignment of claims. However, it is evident that while there is a critical path and a number of interdependencies in addressing these barriers, steps to advance their resolution can be taken in parallel. We urge the Commission to consider in further detail (in conjunction with industry) how to progress as soon as possible.

6. Supervision

This section covers the European Supervisory Authorities (ESAs) with a special focus on the European Securities and Markets Authority (ESMA). It is divided into three parts:

- The first part focuses on the effectiveness of the current framework
- The second part goes into more detail regarding the specific sectors, i.e. central counterparties (CCPs), central securities depositories (CSDs), trading venues, asset managers, and cryptos assets service providers
- The last part covers four horizontal areas: the governance framework for new direct supervisory mandates, supervisory convergence, data and funding

Respondents are invited to provide concrete examples to support their responses, and, where possible, include quantitative and qualitative input.

6.1. Effectiveness of the current framework

Question 1. How effective are current EU supervisory arrangements in achieving the objectives or performing the tasks below?

Question 2. What prevents the ESAs from reaching the objectives or performing the tasks listed in Question 1?

Please explain your answer:

5000 character(s) maximum including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

Gold plating of EU law or introduction of additional supplementary national rules (particularly in the case of non-maximal regulation) undermine efforts towards harmonisation and achieving a single market for financial services. This has occurred in some Member States in relation to provisions of UCITS, MiFID II and AIFMD. and is particularly prevalent in relation to retail investors.

In some cases, this divergence is facilitated through EU legislation itself, for example under the MiFID II product intervention measures which provide a framework through which Member States can implement additional restrictions/requirements on the availability of financial instruments to retail investors. They act as a disincentive for broader retail engagement in European markets and in some cases create a degree of complexity for product providers seeking to offer EU wide access to cease offering a product altogether in a given EU Member State. For example, recent product intervention measures introduced in Spain in relation to CFDs also included measures applicable to listed derivatives. Some retail brokers whose offering was predicated on an EU wide margining model were no longer able to offer certain listed derivative products to Spanish clients. This restricted not only investment possibilities for retail investors, but also restricted in some cases hedging possibilities, limiting retail investors' ability to mitigate and minimise risk across their investment portfolios. In addition, these national divergences create uncertainty and additional compliance complexity for EU firms.

In relation to product intervention measures and gold-plating more broadly, there needs to be great coordination across NCAs based on clear SIU oriented objectives.

This practice should also apply to coordination between ESAs on broader capital markets objectives. Whilst the ESAs already have a mandate to consider the impact of their activities on competition, global competitiveness, and economic growth, these objectives have not been central to their operations. To address this, support from the Commission and Co-legislators is needed to fully integrate these priorities into the ESAs' operational frameworks.

Finally, the time taken to develop Level 3 guidance to provide clarifications where there is regulatory uncertainty, for example via Q&A, can create uncertainty and lead to increased costs for firms in attempting to second guess what the eventual outcome will be while also not wanting to place themselves at a competitive disadvantage.

Question 3. Please assess ESMA's governance model currently in place for the direct supervisory mandates.

Currently, the Board of Supervisors adopts supervisory decisions prepared either by ESMA staff (for example for CRAs) or the CCP supervisory committee (for tier 2 third country CCPs).

You may want to consider elements, such as ability to take decisions swiftly, independent decision in EU public interest, quality of the decisions being taken, ability to take into account supervised entities and other stakeholders:

- 1 Not at all effective
- 2 Rather ineffective
- 3 Neutral
- 4 Rather effective
- 5 Very effective
- Don't know / no opinion / not applicable

Please explain your answer to question 3, considering all the elements provided above:

6.2. Specific questions on supervisory arrangements for different sectors

Question 4. Do you have ideas how EU-level supervision of financial markets could be structured (for example the whole or part of the sector should be supervised at EU level, supervisory decisions could be taken at EU level or national, etc.)?

- Yes
- No
- Don't know / no opinion / not applicable

in terms of supervisory architecture and supervisors' responsibilities:

Make targeted progress toward centralised supervision: Centralising EU supervision will ensure greater coherence and consistency, benefitting the level playing field and regulatory certainty. It will also reduce the fragmentation of national practices, leading to greater efficiency and lower compliance costs for firms and investors. The initial first step should be to introduce more centralising EU-level supervision in the secondary markets and post-trade areas.

Establish a central supervisory data reporting hub. Current fragmented reporting requirements create high costs for firms and NCAs and hinder effective supervisory data analysis. To address this, we support: • Establishing a centralised hub within ESMA for all market-related supervisory reporting (e.g., MiFIR, EMIR, SSR);

• Empowering ESMA to manage the collection, processing, storage and quality assurance of all data within this hub, including analysis for policy and supervisory convergence purposes;

• Facilitating joint data analysis by ESMA and NCAs from the central hub.

Provide a central role to ESMA for reinforcing EU market integrity supervision. Currently, each NCA oversees market integrity within its own Member State, and some Member States even have multiple NCAs with overlapping mandates. This fragmentation results in limited cross-market and cross-asset class surveillance across the EU. Today, cross-border investigations are rare and complex undertakings and as a consequence suspicious trading activity is too often left unaddressed. Strong EU capital markets should also be clean markets. We call for ESMA to be made responsible for market integrity supervision in the EU, carrying out directly the central market surveillance function with a focus on market manipulation supervision, while operating in a hub-and-spoke model between ESMA and NCAs.

Question 5. Some NCAs have developed advanced expertise or specialisation in supervising certain sectors.

What is your view on building on these NCAs and creating EU centres of supervisory expertise by sectors?

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

FIA EPTA members acknowledge value of NCA expertise especially where concentration of a given activity has resulted in the development of niche expertise. However, we emphasise the desirability of ensuring there is a level playing field across EU Member States and the importance of supervisory convergence in order to better integrate EU capital markets. ESMA should adopt the culture that has enabled specialist national levels of expertise which is typically driven by a culture of dialogue between regulator and industry.

Question 6. Do you think supervision of EU financial markets would benefit from pooling together resources and expertise of individual NCAs in regional hubs?

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

This kind of measure could potentially support enhanced supervisory convergence via establishing closer contact and engagement amongst NCAs, particularly as European capital markets tend to also have regional hubs where certain activities or product expertise resides.

In addition, taking a less fragmented approach would be beneficial for ensuring consistent application within the EU of requirements and standards but the legislative and supervisory framework that this structure would operate within would need to be considered so it makes the EU more attractive and competitive rather than simply levelling an uncompetitive playing field.

Question 7. What is your view on setting up regional hubs of ESMA to ensure closer interaction with market participants?

Please explain your reply highlighting benefits and downsides

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

If NCAs were to form regional hubs, it would also make sense for ESMA to have regional offices, as the UK FCA does.

However, our members do have concerns that practically having regional hubs would make ESMA less efficient operationally and increase costs.

6.3. Questions on the supervision of EU CSDs

6.3.1. Identifying costs related to the current supervisory framework and benefits of more integrated EU supervision

7. Horizontal questions on the supervisory framework

7.1. New direct supervisory mandates and governance models

Question 1. Would you agree that EU level supervision is beneficial to achieve a more integrated market?

- 1 Strongly agree
- 2 Agree
- 3 Neutral
- 4 Disagree
- 5 Strongly disagree
- Don't know / no opinion / not applicable

Please explain your answer to question 1:

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

Make targeted progress toward centralised supervision: Centralising EU supervision will ensure greater coherence and consistency, benefitting the level playing field and regulatory certainty. It will also reduce the fragmentation of national practices, leading to greater efficiency and lower compliance costs for firms and investors. The initial first step should be to introduce more centralising EU-level supervision in the secondary markets and post-trade areas.

Establish a central supervisory data reporting hub. Current fragmented reporting requirements create high costs for firms and NCAs and hinder effective supervisory data analysis. To address this , we advocate for: • Establishing a centralised hub within ESMA for all market-related supervisory reporting (e.g., MiFIR, EMIR, SSR);

• Empowering ESMA to manage the collection, processing, storage and quality assurance of all data within this hub, including analysis for policy and supervisory convergence purposes;

• Facilitating joint data analysis by ESMA and NCAs from the central hub.

Provide a central role to ESMA for reinforcing EU market integrity supervision. Currently, each NCA oversees market integrity within its own Member State, and some Member States even have multiple NCAs with overlapping mandates. This fragmentation results in limited cross-market and cross-asset class surveillance across the EU. Today, cross-border investigations are rare and complex undertakings and as a consequence suspicious trading activity is too often left unaddressed. Strong EU capital markets should also be clean markets. We call for ESMA to be made responsible for market integrity super¬vision in the EU, carrying out directly the central market surveillance function with a focus on market manipulation supervision, while operating in a hub-and-spoke model between ESMA and NCAs.

Question 2. Are there other sectors of financial services, not covered in the questions on the topic of supervision where granting ESMA new direct supervisory powers should be considered?

- Yes
- No

	1 (strongly agree - very important objective)	2 (rather agree - important objective)	3 (neutral)	4 (rather disagree - less important objective)	5 (strongly disagree - not important objective)	Don't know - No opinion - Not applicable
a) Streamlined supervisory process	0	۲	0	0	0	0
b) Single supervisory point of contact and efficiency in the engagement with a single supervisor, instead of multiple NCAs	0	۲	0	0	0	0
c) Reduced volume of Level 2 legislation (technical standards) and supervisory guidelines	0	۲	0	0	0	0
d) Coherent supervisory outcomes for the EU market as a whole	۲	O	0	0	0	0
e) more harmonised application of EU rules	۲	0	0	0	0	0
f) enhanced pool of expertise and resources	0	۲	۲	0	۲	0

h) ensuring a high level of supervision across EU	0	۲	0	0	0	0
i) reduced costs	0	0	۲	0	0	0
j) other	0	۲	۲	0	0	۲

Please explain your answer to question 3:

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

The most significant benefit would be harmonisation of application of EU rules and coherent supervisory outcomes for the EU market as a whole.

We would be concerned about a reduction in the volume of Level 2 legislation referenced as this is a practical support for implementing regulations. If there were two separate approaches to supervision within a sector (e.g. with larger or cross boarded entities under direct ESMA supervision and smaller ones under local NCA supervision) reducing the detailed Level 2 implementation requirements could make compliance more complicated.

Question 4. What would be the costs (one off costs and ongoing costs) and savings for your organisation associated with new direct supervisory mandates at the EU level?

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

Our members find it difficult to estimate costs and savings in the absence of understanding what day to day supervisory engagement would look like. Depending on the regulatory returns required and submission process there is likely to be some development work which would incur one off costs.

It is important that the aggregate costs of centralised/centraliing supervision do not increase vs current costs of national supervision. It is not acceptable if a tool intended for increasing EU capital market efficiency in practice would lead to further increasing the cost of doing business in the EU.

Question 5. Which governance do you consider most suitable for a given model of direct supervision?

a) A Supervisory Committee:

It would be composed of a limited number of independent members (employed by ESMA) and representatives of these NCAs in whose jurisdiction directly supervised entities are operating. This committee will guide the supervisory tasks given to the EU level and carried out by ESMA staff and/or joint supervisory teams. The committee could have different formations /configurations for each of the sectors supervised. In terms of decision making, three alternatives could be envisaged: 1. Final decision making by the Supervisory Committee

2. Supervisory Committee in charge but Board of Supervisors (BoS) would have a veto right on certain decisions when a set of pre-defined criteria would be met (e.g. particular political sensitivity/importance)

3. As per the current CCP Supervisory Committee, the new Supervisory Committee would prepare the decisions, but the BoS would be the final decision-making body

b) Establishing an Executive Board composed of the Chair of ESMA and a small number of full-time independent members:

It will take all decisions towards individual supervised entities. The BoS would ensure some NCAs involvement, and it would still be able to provide its opinion on any decision about directly supervised entities. This model would be similar to the one designed for the Anti-Money Laundering Authority (AMLA).

c) A governance model based on the current setting of direct supervision as for example for CRAs:

In this model, ESMA would become the sole direct supervisor without any direct participation of NCAs' staff in the authorisation and ongoing supervision. All EU NCAs would remain involved in all supervisory decisions through the BoS approval process, regardless of whether they are home NCA or not. When it comes to day-to-day supervision, this should be performed by ESMA staff. ESMA would be able to decide to delegate certain tasks to NCAs, but would continue to remain responsible for any supervisory decision.

Don't know / no opinion / not applicable

Please explain your answer to question 5 and explain for which reasons you think this governance model is the most suitable (e.g. speed of decision making, inclusiveness of process)?

You may differentiate your reply per sector:

5000 character(s) maximum

including spaces and line breaks, i.e. stricter than the MS Word characters counting method.

Answer B: create an independent board consisting of experienced and highly regarded senior leaders with diverse background and experience in both the private and public sectors with no role for the Board of Supervisors.

It is important, regardless of which governance model is chosen, that the model does ensure that the sector being supervised is represented by appropriate sector expertise. It is also important for the governance process to be as simplified as possible avoiding extra layers of approvals/reviews to ensure supervisory decisions can be made in a prompt manner.

Question 6. Would you envisage a different governance model apart from one of those outlined above?

Level 3 guidance in the form of Q&As are useful but the process for agreeing and finalising these can be very slow with significant time passing between identification of the issue requiring clarification and publication of final guidance, resulting in regulatory uncertainty in the intervening period.

College of supervisors can be a cumbersome tool, if used with a flawed governance/decision making structure and unclear roles and responsibilities between NCAs, ESMA and the College. Repeated requests for similar information can occur. In addition, our understanding is that where a consensus view cannot be reached within a College of supervisors, NCAs default to their national legal opinion resulting in the persistence of supervisory divergence. In order for this to be resolved there needs to be a centralised decision-making body and a requirement for NCAs to adhere to the decisions it makes.

No, but this is a function of the governance of the ESAs.: as long as the ESMA Board of Supervisors prioritises national autonomy over uniform interpretation of the Single Rule Book, supervisory convergence tools will function sub-optimally.

Establish a central supervisory data reporting hub. Current fragmented reporting requirements create high costs for firms and NCAs and hinder effective supervisory data analysis. It is unclear why tech funding should be organized differently from the general funding of the ESAs – this should be done by a combination of NCA, industry and EU direct funding. The more responsibilities the ESMA is taking on, the more the NCA / Member State contribution to ESMA should increase, while national contributions by industry to their NCA should be decreased.

ESAs' budget is currently composed of:

- contributions from the NCAs which are complemented by a contribution from the EU budget, with NCAs contributing 60% and the EU budget 40%
- In case of direct supervisory mandates, also of fees charged to market participants to cover the full costs of direct supervisory activities. ESMA has nine separate fee income streams and they represent approx. 30% of ESMA's revenue
- other payments from NCAs for ESAs to be able to undertake tasks on their behalf

Question 22. ESMA: Do you consider the provisions on financing and resources for the tasks and responsibilities of ESMA appropriate?

Please explain your answer to question 22 for ESMA:

No. As above in response to Q316, this should be done by a combination of NCA, industry and EU direct funding. NCAs/Member states should contribute more.

Alongside greater NCA/Member State contributions, ESAs should recalibrate their activities so there is less single minded focus on rule making (as overall regulatory pressure should be lessened) in line with the SIU objectives of simplification and burden reduction, while making more resources available to achieve harmonised supervisory outcomes in key strategic areas to facilitate effective market functioning.
